The Tata Memorial Centre constitutes the national comprehensive cancer centre for the prevention, treatment, research, training and education on cancer and is comparable to any similar centre in the world.

With the advances in cancer management the number of patients living with cancer is increasing. The disease and its treatment can cause various physical and functional impairments which interfere with self care, mobility and smooth transition to their former lifestyle.

Occupational Therapy is an important branch of rehabilitation which aims at maximum restoration of physical, psychological, social, vocational, recreational and economic functions within the limits impaired by cancer and its treatment.

With the noble aim of reaching occupational therapy services to the needy in order to facilitate functional and productive living of cancer survivors, we occupational therapists at TMH conduct "Training Program in Oncology for Occupational Therapists"
